HOW NOT TO ROB A BANK

If you're thinking about robbing a bank, here are some true experiences of several would-be bank robbers that you might learn from:

- 1. PICK THE RIGHT BANK. You don't want to make the same mistake as the fellow in Anaheim, California, who tried to hold up a bank that was no longer in business and had no money.
- 2. STUDY YOUR HISTORY. Don't try to stick up the First National Bank of Northfield, Minnesota. Jesse James tried it 111 years ago and the townsfolk took just seven minutes to kill two and capture three of his gang. Nobody tried it again until 1984, and the customers chased the guy down.
- 3. SPEAK TO THE RIGHT TELLER: A robber in Upland, California, presented his note to the teller. The teller's father, who was in the next line, got all bent out of shape about it. He wrestled the guy to the ground and sat on him until police arrived.
- 4. DON'T SIGN YOUR DEMAND NOTE. Demand notes have been written on the back of a subpoena issued in the name of a bank robber in Pittsburgh...on an envelope bearing the name and address of the robber in Detroit...and on the back of a withdrawal slip giving the robber's signature and account number in East Hartford, Connecticut.
- 5. TAKE RIGHT TURNS ONLY. Avoid the sad fate of the bank robbers in Florida who took a wrong turn into the Homestead Air Force Base, drove up to a military police guardhouse, and thinking it was a toll-booth, offered the security men money.
