LOCAL & AREA NEWS

◆ CONSTRUCTION DOWN IN ATHENS

The total amount of construction projects in the city of Athens through September of this year is $4,457,711. That's below the 2009 total of $7 million and considerably below the 2008 figure of $19,690,788.00. Although more building permits have been issued this year (308 compared to 165 in 2009), the size of the building projects are much smaller than in years past. The highest amount of construction in recent years was in 1997 when the total was $30,511,707.00

◆ COMMUNITY NEWS YOU CAN USE:

✓ Tennessee Wesleyan College will celebrate Halloween on Friday from 7 to 9 p.m. with family-friendly trick-or-treating at Keith Hall and carnival games and pumpkin decorating in the gym. Admission is free, but donations will be accepted. All proceeds will benefit St. Jude Children's Hospital.

✓ The McMinn Regional Humane Society will hold an Adopt-A-Thon at the Athens Eye Clinic next to McDonalds this Saturday from mid-morning to early afternoon. A variety of pets from small to large will be available for adoption. Also, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, free pet food will be available at the Two Summers Clinic at 1443 Highway 30 East, Athens. Call 649-0370 for details.

NATIONAL-WORLD NEWS

◆ A tornado touched down near the Chickamauga Dam in Chattanooga Tuesday night, causing a seven car pileup that injured five people. The twister then skipped across the Tennessee River and smashed through an apartment complex and a subdivision. Fierce winds demolished three homes and injured 11 people in Vale, North Carolina, as a massive storm blew across the south and central U.S.

◆ Al-Qaida leader Osama bin Laden threatens in a new audio tape to kill French citizens because of their country's support for the U.S.-led war in Afghanistan and a new law that will ban face-covering Muslim veils.

◆ Facing a nationwide shortage of a drug used in lethal injections, Arizona has taken the unusual step of getting supplies of sodium thiopental from Great Britain. Shortages of the drug in the U.S. began slowing executions this past spring.

◆ A new government report says more American adults are now aware that they have high blood pressure and more people are taking medicine to try to control it. The CDC says 30% of American adults have high blood pressure.

◆ On Wall Street, the DJIA closed at 11,126.28; down 43.18.

Travel on Highway 30 East near the National Guard Armory was interrupted Wednesday afternoon after a single car wreck injured one person. Wendy Frazier, the driver and only passenger of the Red Ford Explorer, said she applied her brakes and they locked, causing her vehicle to roll into a ditch. She was taken to Woods Hospital by iCare Ambulance. Athens Rural Fire Department offered assistance. (Photo by Jay Thomson)
