LOCAL - STATE NEWS

◆ MOTOR THROWN FROM I-75 OVERPASS

The driver of a charter tour bus suffered minor injuries Sunday night when a small motor apparently was thrown from the County Road 130 bridge over I-75, just south of exit 49. The motor, which appeared to be from an electric fan, struck the top of the windshield, passed through the windshield and came to rest inside the bus. The driver managed to pull the bus to the side of the interstate. The bus then proceeded to the southbound rest area, where it waited for deputies and the Tennessee Highway Patrol to arrive. The driver was treated for injuries at SkyRidge Medical Center in Cleveland. The bus was carrying 18 members of the "Voices of Lee" singing group from Lee University. None of them were injured.

This was the second incident involving an object being thrown from an I-75 bridge in the past two weeks. Someone threw a mailbox from a bridge at mile-marker 59 on Nov. 16. The mailbox hit a tractor-trailer, shattering the truck's windshield and causing facial cuts to the driver.

McMinn County Sheriff Joe Guy says his officers will focus more attention on the interstate overpasses. He also advises motorists to be watchful when approaching overpasses and even flash their bright lights on the overpass at night as ways to help avoid being a victim.
