SOUTHEAST TENNESSEE NEWS

✓ The Hamilton County Commission is the latest governing body in Tennessee to get a letter from the Freedom From Religion Foundation asking it to stop praying before meetings. The letter says every prayer so far this year has been given "in Jesus' name." The letter from the atheist organization asks commissioners to discontinue Christian prayers before government meetings.

✓ A recent report to Tennessee's General Assembly indicates that the state of Tennessee continues to lead the country in prescription drug abuse rates. The new report shows that nearly 18 million prescriptions for controlled substances like OxyContin and hydrocodone were dispensed in 2011; a 23% increase from 2010. The surging figures are a setback for those that are fighting to control the prescription drug abuse epidemic that appears to be rampant across the state.

✓ Chattanooga attorney John Wolfe has handed President Obama an embarrassment in the Arkansas Democratic presidential primary. Wolfe won 41% of the vote. Wolfe had previously run a half-dozen unsuccessful political campaigns in Chattanooga.
