State & Local News

◆ "SEND THAT TEXT, YOU COULD BE NEXT"

What could have been a tragic accident in McMinn County is now the focus of a regional campaign to reduce texting and driving. On June 4th, McMinn County Deputy Randy Gabrel was returning home from work when an oncoming car drifted across the center line and struck his patrol car head-on. The other car was driven by Nick Austin, a 17-year-old McMinn County student on his way to a football workout. Both drivers were seriously injured. The investigation revealed that Austin was texting just prior to the crash. For the next week, Gabrel's crashed patrol car will be on display at L&M Motors. Then, both cars will be on display at the McMinn County Justice Center. The cars along with Deputy Gabrel and Nick Austin will go to schools and public events in East Tennessee to talk about how texting and driving affected their lives. (The photo by Jay Thomson shows Austin and Gabrel in front of the patrol car)

National & International News

- ◆ The U.S. Centers for Disease Control has issued its highest alert in response to the Ebola crisis in West Africa. A total of 932 people have died since March in Sierra Leone, Guinea, Liberia and Nigeria. West Africa is experiencing the largest outbreak of the hemorrhagic fever in history.
- ◆ U.S. health regulators have authorized the use of an Ebola diagnostic test developed by the Pentagon to help contain the world's worst outbreak of the deadly virus.
- ◆ The President will sign today a $16.3 billion plan to ease health care delays at Veterans Affairs facilities. The measure contains $10 billion in new emergency spending and allows veterans to use private doctors at the department's expense if they cannot get an appointment in less than 30 days.
- ◆ Russia will ban all imports of U.S. food products as well as fruit and vegetables from the European Union after President Vladimir Putin ordered retaliation for Western sanctions against Moscow.
- ◆ Hawaii residents are furiously stocking up on essentials as two hurricanes churned toward the islands, prompting flash flood warnings, closing schools and disrupting travel plans across the islands.
