- ♦ ATHENS POLICE SAVE LIFE WITH NARCAN
Athens police have a new tool to fight the Opioid epidemic, and it's already saved a life. Police and firefighters were trained last Thursday on how to use Narcan, which is a medication that can counteract the effects of an Opioid overdose and prevent death. Later that day, police were dispatched to a suspected overdose. Officers Kristen Warren and Darryl Wright used their newly issued Narcan to help an 18-year-old man who had overdosed on a suspected Opioid. The man was taken to the hospital by ambulance. Police Chief Cliff Couch says this is a perfect example of why it's so important for Athens to equip its first responders with the necessary training and equipment to do their job as quickly as possible.
- ♦ MURDER SUSPECT ARRESTED AGAIN
The Etowah man who was charged last June with murder and rape in the death of 18-year-old Kelsey Burnette in Etowah has been arrested again. Joseph Wielzen was charged with vandalism after throwing eggs at cars on Pennsylvania Avenue in Etowah last Wednesday. Wielzen is still awaiting trial for the murder of Ms. Burnette. The teenager went missing on July 1st, 2017, and three days later her body was found in Etowah. Wielzen was arrested last June 21st. He bonded out in September. At the time of the murder Wielzen was a juvenile, but he will be tried as an adult.
