Warnock Wins GA Senate Race

◆ Democrat Raphael Warnock won by a slim margin against Republican challenger Herschel Walker in a hotly contested runoff that drew record voter turnout in Georgia. According to the Georgia Secretary of State's office, more people voted in the runoff election than in the 2020 presidential election. As votes came in across the state Tuesday night, the candidates seesawed back and forth until votes from the metro Atlanta area propelled Warnock into an unsurpassable lead. Warnock's win means that Democrats keep the majority in the Senate, and they will be over the threshold that would require a power-sharing agreement between Democrats and Republicans in Senate committees. Warnock addressed his supporters in downtown Atlanta to thank them. The senator also addressed allegations of voter suppression across the state of Georgia, saying they won thanks to voters enduring long lines. Walker also addressed his supporters and thanked them and stated, "I'm not going to make any excuses, because we put up one heck of a fight," "One of the things I want to tell all of you is that you never stop dreaming. I want you to continue to believe in America and believe in our elected officials and in our Constitution." (From WSB Radio & TV - Atlanta)
