Second Man Sought After Multi-County Chase Linked to Athens Stabbing Investigation

Law enforcement agencies across multiple counties are searching for a second suspect following a pursuit tied to the investigation of a January stabbing in Athens.

Police say the case began Thursday, Jan. 22, when David Rodriguez Cruz allegedly stabbed a person at a residence in Athens and fled the scene. The victim, whose identity has not been released, was hospitalized. Cruz has since been charged with attempted first-degree murder and is considered armed and dangerous. Authorities say he was last seen driving a silver 2005 Toyota Highlander with North Carolina license plate LBK-9152.

The investigation expanded Wednesday, Feb. 4, when officers with the Cleveland Police Department spotted 41-year-old Larry Thomas Burns speaking with an associate of Cruz near the Kinser Road area off Highway 64. Officers attempted to make contact and request identification, but police say Burns put his vehicle in reverse and accelerated toward officers, forcing them to move out of the way.

Burns then fled eastbound on Highway 64 into Polk County. Deputies with the Polk County Sheriff's Office and troopers with the Tennessee Highway Patrol joined the pursuit but were unable to catch the suspect. His vehicle was later found abandoned near the 2400 block of Parksville Road in Benton. Police believe Burns, along with any other occupants, fled the area on foot.

Authorities have since identified Burns as the driver and say he is now wanted on multiple felony charges, including three counts of aggravated assault on law enforcement officers and felony evading arrest. He is also wanted on separate felony warrants out of Bradley County for theft over $2,500. The whereabouts of both Burns and Cruz remain unknown. While police have not confirmed a direct connection between the two men, authorities say the searches are related and stem from the same ongoing investigation.

Anyone with information regarding either suspect is urged to contact 911 immediately. Officials warn the public not to approach either individual.

Athens City Council to Hold Work Session Today

The Athens City Council will meet for a work session today; Monday, Feb. 9, at 5 p.m. in the City Hall Conference Room. The agenda includes discussion of purchasing a replacement vehicle for the Parks and Recreation Department using state contract pricing; awarding a bid to demolish six dilapidated residential structures; paving the Heritage Park parking lot; and several resolutions authorizing the city to apply for or accept grant funding for parks, trails, signage, highway safety, and fire department rescue services.

Council members will also discuss public comment rules and decorum, proposed amendments to the city's beer ordinance, a City-Whiting mediation update from the city attorney, and councilmember items, including Christmas lights at Regional Park. The meeting will also address vacancies on the Board of Adjustments and Appeals and the Historic Preservation Commission.

Authorities Searching for Stolen Hyundai Elantra in McMinn County

Authorities are searching for a stolen 2015 silver Hyundai Elantra reported taken from near County Road 504 in Englewood.

The vehicle has damage to the driver-side quarter panel and a dent on the front passenger side. Officers say the car may be occupied by three individuals, possibly two females and one male, including a 36-year-old woman named Mikayla Smith. An Athens city officer last spotted the vehicle traveling west on Highway 30 toward Etowah.

A possible residence connected to one of the occupants was mentioned, but no address has been confirmed.

Anyone with information is urged to contact local law enforcement.
